When did you last
talk to a stranger?

Not a barista. Not a colleague. A stranger.

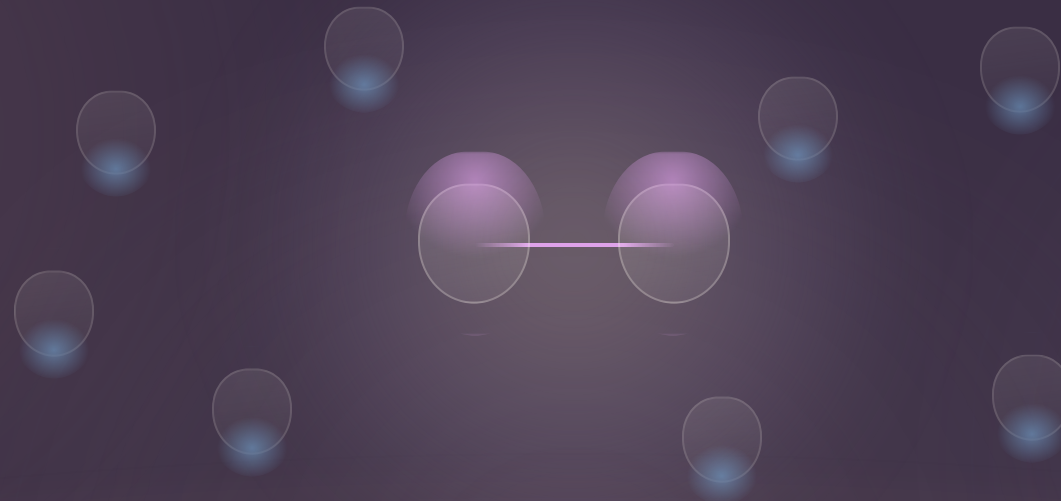

The chance is there all day. We're looking at our screens.

The traveller looking around for help. The person across from you listening to your favourite band. So many openings — and we avoid the awkwardness by going into our phones.

THE FEELING

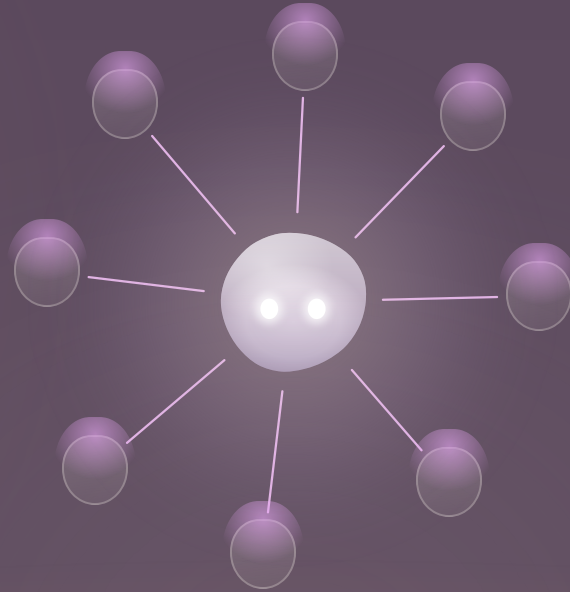

And when it does,
you carry it all day.

You helped a traveller find their way. You found out your neighbour is a huge football fan too. And the street stops feeling like a sea of strangers.

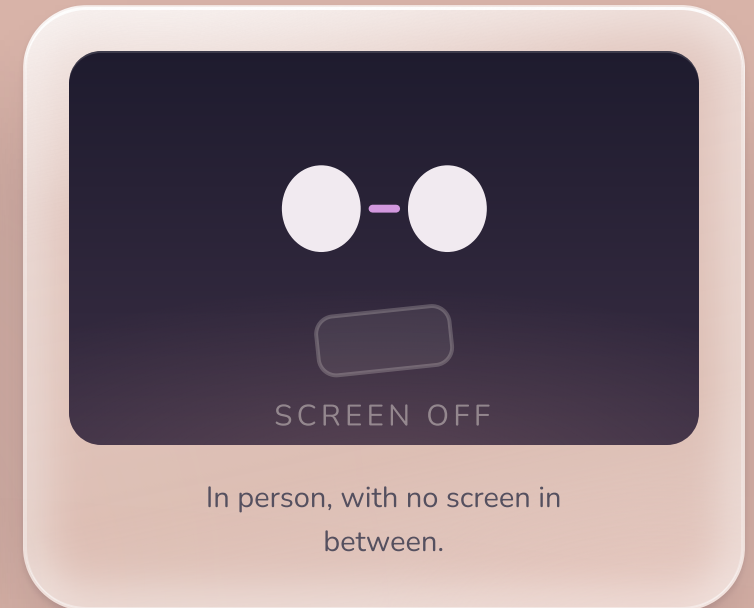

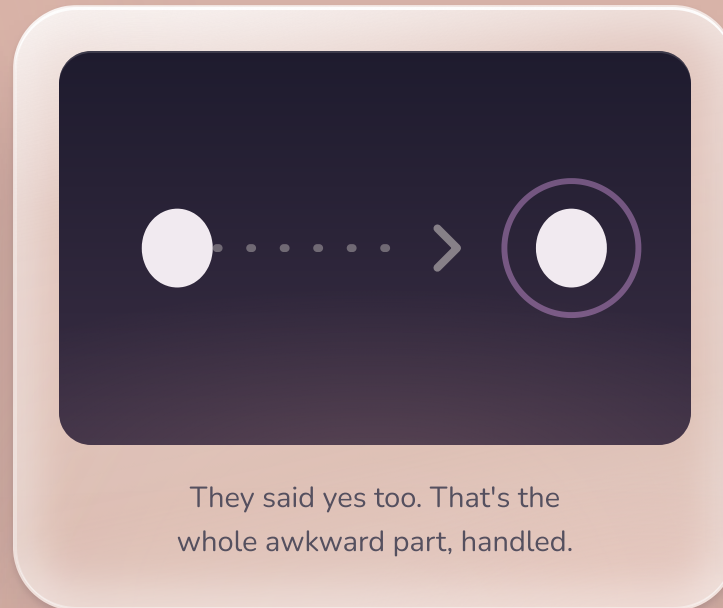

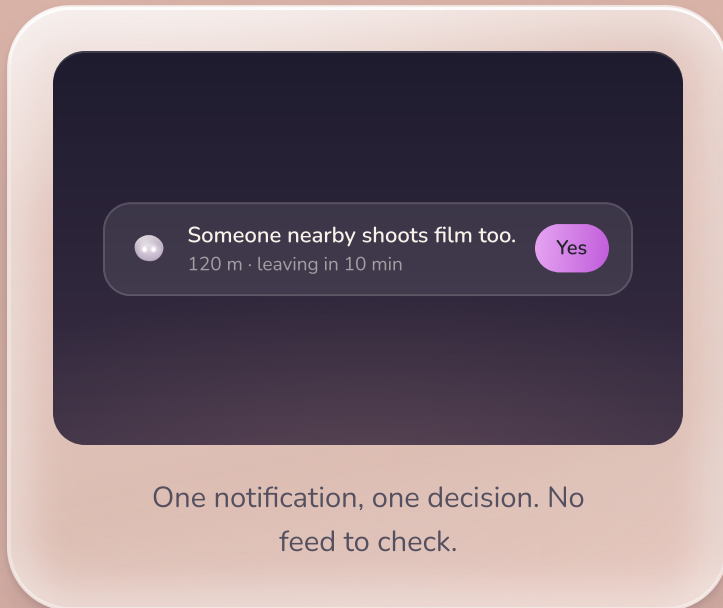

WHAT KIN IS

An introduction. Not a feed.

An IRL social app that introduces you to the people and moments already around you — inside the few hundred metres you can actually walk to.

Yes → walk over → hello.

COME ALONG

Come say hi. In person.

Helsinki first, one neighbourhood at a time. If you're here, you're early enough to shape what your street feels like.
